RESOURCE COMMERCIAL REAL ESTATE ADDS PROPERTY MANAGEMENT, TAPS VETERAN AS NEW COMPANY'S PRESIDENT

(INDIANAPOLIS) - Resource Commercial Real Estate announced this summer that it will add property management to its arsenal of client services, making it Indiana's largest 100 percent locally owned, full-service commercial real estate firm that is not affiliated with or owned by a national or global network.

"Our clients look to us to provide them a full range of value added services to help them achieve their business goals," Resource Commercial Real Estate CEO, Sam Smith said. "So, we've brought in the very best to lead Resource Property Management. Many of our clients have requested this service. Now we can deliver it at a very high level."

Resource tapped James E. Logan, a 25-year veteran of property management, to lead the new company, Resource Property Management. Logan most recently served as Vice President of Property Management for Paragon Companies. In his expansive career, Logan managed more than 7 million square feet of commercial real estate including the NCAA Headquarters, Emmis Communications Headquarters, Indiana State Forensic Laboratories and Methodist Hospital Professional Building.

"Clients today are looking for experienced and responsive real estate professionals to handle their investments. We provide clients a high level of personalized services," said Jim Logan, President of Resource Property Management. "Owners want property managers that can help them maximize the value of their asset. That's what I've done for 25 years."

Principals in the new firm include the five owners of Resource (Sam Smith, Tim O'Brien, Tom Osborne, RJ Rudolph Jr. and David Ponader, as well as Jim Logan).
